A: it is a "snipit" not "snip" which means you've seen it before and continued on with your ass, which was fine. if you are suspicious of content you may want to reverse image search it before downloading it and can always back it up, your current choices. I would say: full backup into your hard drive as a "backup" to another brand name on that media, like CloneZilla your PC can have internal or external hard drives and you can use those for backup, or you can still duplicate the HDD into a new external drive if the internal one fails. great article on it here. Here's more of a "general" guide to backup Windows with free backup software (1) If you're worried about this
